Tenement House Damaged by Fire.

The fire department was called out Wednesday afternoon in response to an alarm from Box 31, near Eleventh street, where a frame cottage was burning fiercely.

The fire originated from a coal oil stove, which was left burning in the hall upstairs. It is supposed that the blaze was turned too high and ignited the paper on the walls of the narrow passage. The flames quickly spread, the entire roof was burned and nothing was saved from the second floor, the contents which were not destroyed by the fire being ruined by the water.

The fire department prevented the spreading of the fire to adjoining frame structures, as a stiff breeze was blowing. The roof of the house belonging to Mary A. Judy and the stable belonging to Mr. W. L. Yerkes, on the opposite of High street, caught but no damage was done. The house belonged to Mr. J. B. Northcott and was occupied by four colored families.

Mystery Surrounds Discharge of Conductors.

The Cincinnati Enquirer of yesterday contained the following: "Mystery surrounds the discharge of eight passenger conductors on the Knoxville-Cincinnati division of the Louisville and Nashville. Officials declare that no conductors have been dismissed from the service of the road, while the men and their friends declare that they have been let go. The men were let out on short notice, but why is a mystery.

"About a year ago the Louisville and Nashville put 'spotters' on trains, most of them being women. A number of charges were turned in by the 'spotters,' but no action was taken by the road. Beyond admitting that they have left the service of the L. and N. the men, who claim that they have been discharged, decline to discuss their dismissal. When confronted with these facts officials of the road strenuously denied that any conductors had left the service.

"Humors were afloat yesterday, both in Cincinnati and Covington that the Order of Railway Conductors will be called upon to take a hand in the matter, as the local committee have exhausted all means in their power to get the men reinstated."

RAILWAY DETECTIVES.

They Trace Those Who Steal or Destroy Property of the Road.

The secret service is a hard game to tackle, but, like all kinds of work, it has its easy jobs. One of them is that of special agent for a railroad. The agent is supposed to trace those who steal or destroy railroad property.

When he is notified that a trunk or other article of baggage is missing he finds out by its number from where it was sent and follows it on the books to the last station where it has been checked. Then he notifies the police in the vicinity between the station where the baggage was last checked and the station where it should have been checked. The police get busy, and probably the property is soon recovered and the thieves put in jail. The baggage is then turned over to the special agent, who notifies the railroad official that he has recovered the stolen goods.

If a freight car is robbed the special agent pursues the same tactics. He finds out where the car was last sealed and the place where the car was reported as having its seal broken. The police or constables in the country between the two points are notified, and if they fail to capture the robbers the railroad may never hear again of the stolen goods. Wherever destruction has occurred to railroad property it is usually police officers who trace and arrest those guilty.

However, the special agent must be a keen judge of human nature and with sufficient tact to make himself popular with the police officers in his territory. Usually he is an old time detective and is well enough acquainted with detectives and police throughout the country to obtain results where an amateur would fail.

THE JUDGE ERRED.

His Mistake Clearly Explained by the Old Colored Woman.

The judge of the juvenile court, leaning forward in his chair, looked searchingly from the disreputable and very ragged picanniny before his desk to the ample and solicitous form of the culprit's mother. "Why do you send him to the railroad yards to pick up coal?" demanded his honor. "You know it is against the law to send your child where he will be in jeopardy of his life."

"Deed, judge, I doesn't send 'im. I nebber has sent 'im, 'deed—"

"Doesn't he bring home the coal?" interrupted the judge impatiently.

"But, judge, I whips 'im, judge, every time he brings it. I whips de little rascal till he can't set, 'deed I does."

The careful disciplinarian turned her broad, shiny countenance reprovingly upon her undisturbed offspring, but kept a conciliatory eye for the judge.

"You burn the coal he brings, do you not?" persisted the judge.

"Burns it—burns it—cose I burns it. W'y, judge, I has to git it out ob de way."

"Why don't you send him back with it?" His honor smiled insinuatingly as he rasped out the question.

"Send 'im back, judge!" exclaimed the woman, throwing up her hands in a gesture of astonishment. "Send 'im back! W'y, judge, ain't yo' jest done been told me I didn't oughter send my chile to no sech dangesome and jeopardous place?"—Youth's Companion.

Bumps on the Head.

The lump raised by a blow on the head is due to the resistance offered by the hard skull and its close connection with the movable elastic scalp by many circumscribed bands of connective tissue. The result of a blow when the scalp is not cut is the bruising and laceration of many of the small blood vessels or capillaries. Blood or its fluid constituent, serum, is poured into the meshes of the surrounding connective tissue, which is delicate, spongy, distensible and cellular, and the well known bump or lump is quickly formed. This cannot push inward at all and naturally takes the line of least resistance. Similar bumps may be formed on the skin in exactly the same way, for the skin bone also is covered only by skin and subcutaneous connective tissue.

The First Iron Bridge.

The first iron bridge ever erected in the world and which is in constant use at the present time spans a little river in the county of Salop, on the railroad leading from Shrewsbury to Worcester, England. It was built in the year 1778 and is exactly ninety-six feet in length. The total amount of iron used in its construction was 378 tons. Stephenson, the great engineer, in writing concerning it said, "When we consider the fact that the casting of iron was at that time in its infancy, we are convinced that unblushing audacity alone could conceive and carry into execution such an undertaking."

Fertile Socotra.

Socotra, a large island in the Indian ocean, is one of the least known of the inhabited parts of the world. It is mountainous, but very fertile, and in ancient times was famed for frankincense and myrrh, aloes, dragon's blood and spices. But now Sumatra and South America produce more dragon's blood.

Death-Dealing Gun.

The United States Navy is planning a new 16-inch gun which will make the present world-beating 14-inch gun obsolete.

The navy has just finished one of the fourteen-inch guns, but it has been heard that some of the nations, Japan, especially, are also building the same calibre to keep pace with the situation in case the world is awakened from its dream of peace.

The plans for the new gun have been made by Admiral Twining, Chief of the Bureau of Ordnance. The length of the gun will be 67 feet. It will carry a shell weighing 2,000 pounds and will be effective at 15 miles, thus proving that the horizon cannot put a limit to modern naval science.

The fourteen-inch gun fires a shell weighing 1,400 pounds and has a range of 11 miles.

Two New Clubs in Blue Grass League.

A news dispatch from Lexington says: "President Thomas A. Sheets, of the Lexington club of the Blue Grass League, announced here this morning that the Blue Grass League will invade Covington and Newport next season, having clubs in each of those cities, thus giving the league eight clubs and putting it probably in Class C instead of Class D, where it now is.

"All clubs in the league will remain unless Winchester drops out, and if it does, Mt. Sterling wants a franchise badly.

"President Neal, of Louisville, talked the plans over with the present league officials here, and all agreed on the proposed scheme. This is the first time those cities have ever been invaded by the Bluegrass baseball organization."

Secure Amusement Company.

The Committee on Amusements of the Bourbon County Agricultural Society has closed a contract with the Rock City Amusement Company, of Nashville, Tenn., for the week of the Bourbon Fair Sept. 5-9.
